The Flashman Papers is a series of novels and short stories written by George MacDonald Fraser, the first of which was published in 1969. The books centre on the exploits of the fictional protagonist Harry Flashman. He is a cowardly British soldier, rake and cad who is placed in a series of real historical incidents between 1839 and 1894. While the incidents and much of the detail in the novels have a factual background, Flashman's actions in the stories are either fictional, or Fraser uses the

they were published. The original Flashman, which details the events of the First Anglo-Afghan War, was published in 1969, a good decade before the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and more than 30 years before our own involvement. It should have been required reading at the beginning of this low, dishonest century: as described by Fraser, the retreat from Kabul through the Hindu Kush makes the phrase 'graveyard of empires ...
